Your Task

Practice a realistic freelance negotiation by writing one professional response that protects your value while aiming for a fair agreement with the client.

Complete the task in 3 steps:

1. Read this client message: "Your price is higher than my budget. Can you reduce it by 30% and include two extra revisions without changing the deadline?"
2. Choose one negotiation strategy from the session: Collaborating, Compromising, Competing, Accommodating, or Avoiding.
3. Write a professional reply of about 80-120 words. You may adjust price, scope, deadline, or revisions, but keep the response respectful, clear, and realistic.

| My Professional Reply   | Thank you for the feedback, and I understand budget is an important factor here. I'd like to find a solution that works well for both of us. Cutting the price by 30% while adding two extra revisions isn't sustainable without adjusting something else, since it would affect the quality of the final work. As a middle ground, I can include one additional revision at the current price if we extend the deadline by three days, giving me the time needed to deliver that extra value properly. This way you gain more revisions, and I can maintain the quality you're paying for. Let me know if this works, and I'll get started right away. |
| Final Offer / Agreement | I propose keeping the original price, adding one extra revision, and extending the deadline by three days to cover the additional work.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
